

child element with display inline should not be visible

child element with display inline should not be visible

Only 1/4th of a circle should be visible. The rect is hidden.